Cairo Stories Anne-Marie Drosso

Egypt is the setting for this collection, but the stories are universal -whether it's the girl whose mother no longer recognises her, a young man who uses the changing political climate to avenge his despotic father, or the woman consumed by guilt for abandoning her children. Echoing V.S. Pritchett's words, they 'look for the silent moment in which our singularity breaks through, when emotions change, without warning, and reveal themselves. And while revealing themselves they also unveil the scents and sensations of modern Cairo, from the early 1930s to the present day. Essential reading, not only for those with a love of this fascinating city but for those who cherish the story, unobtrusively and beautifully rendered.

Ruth Paiz:

As a university student exactly feel bored to be able to reading. If their teacher expected them to go to the library in order to make summary for some book, they are complained. Just tiny students that has reading's soul or real their hobby. They just do what the trainer want, like asked to the library. They go to generally there but nothing reading seriously. Any students feel that reading is not important, boring and also can't see colorful pictures on there. Yeah, it is to become complicated. Book is very important for yourself. As we know that on this time, many ways to get whatever we really wish for. Likewise word says, many ways to reach Chinese's country. So , this Cairo Stories can make you sense more interested to read.
