The Kawasaki Ki-61 Hien or Type 3 Fighter remains to this day one of the most recognizable Japanese fighters of the World War II era. What makes Hien unique is the powerplant – it was the only mass-produced Japanese fighter powered by an inline, liquid cooled engine. The Ki-61 began to arrive at the frontlines in large numbers in the summer of 1943 and took part in battles over New Guinea and later over the Philippines and Okinawa, as well as in the defense of the Japanese Home Islands. In total over 3,000 examples of various Ki-61 variants and derivatives were built. The Ki-100, a Ki-61-II Kai airframe mated to the Mitsubishi Ha-112-II radial engine, entered service towards the end of the war.

REVIEWS

a must for any modeler looking to build accurate models of these Japanese fighters.

Amorama

lots of interest for the historians among us, plus excellent reference for modellers as well.

Military Modelling

expertly and authoritatively illumines its colorful subject. Extended captions, tables and annotations augment the account. And photos, color profiles and scale drawings – to 1:72, 1:48 and 1:32 – visually season the study. Modelers will really love this one
